What should the future of the space program be? See what your peers have to say. Page 2
Question of the Week

In the wake of the space shuttle Columbia tragedy, what do you think should become of the U.S. Space Program?

“They should take more precautions before liftoff because once they’re up there they can’t do anything if something bad happened during liftoff.”

“It shouldn’t be stopped, because the only way we’re going to make progress is to keep exploring and experimenting. It’s just like flying in a plane; it’s never going to be completely safe.”

“They should keep going, because in the grand scheme of things this is just a couple bumps in the road. Overall, we’ve had a pretty successful run.”
