

Introduction

The “Learn by Doing” concept at UMC is not just a phrase, it means providing an education that utilizes training directly related to the job that graduates will obtain upon completion of their program of study. All students are required to complete an internship in their major area of study before graduating.

Results of the survey indicate that a positive labor market exists today for UMC graduates. Statistics are based on 196 responses from 201 graduates, or 98 percent of the graduating class.

Major areas of interest gathered from this survey are:

184 (92%) of the graduates were available for employment.

169 (93%) of the graduates available for employment are employed

159 (94%) of the employed graduates are employed related to their educational training.

174 (95%) of the responding graduates indicated they were either very satisfied or satisfied with the training they received at UMC.

Information presented in this report is intended to provide faculty, staff, employers, and prospective students with information relative to the employment of UMC graduates.
